Once the background blends together, there's an invisible street corner

There we are, crying out with fading voices
Go forth with the tearing pain
As though you'd just crawled away from the worst night ever

You're always alone
Your heart is shouting a sound of desire
If we can ever talk again, if we can ever connect

I'd be overwhelmed
You grow more and more distant
I chase after you
To tell you my brand new feelings for you
I run like mad
Present, past and future
I want to be connected with you
By our feelings, by the depths of our souls
